Although Carson City Health and Human Services engages in many opportunities to establish relationships and collaboration in the community to promote the future of public health workers, our agreement and commitment with the University of Nevada Reno, Orvis School of Nursing has long stood a relationship that demonstrates and encourages health care workers to explore and become a part of the Public Health system and workforce.

Through positive clinical rotations with students and staff, we have experienced return of students in undergraduate and post graduate programs wanting to practice in the public health environment.

Our selected documentation of our agreement/contract with the University of Nevada Reno states that students are exposed to all areas of our public health organization and not limited to the clinic setting only. Our agreement with the University runs for 5 years and has been renewed multiple times, signaling a successful relationship and experience.
